SPA CAUCUS OVER; LEFT NO LOOPHOLE FOR GERMANY

Allies Are Fully Agreed, M. Millerand Assures Journalists

"WELL SATISFIED"

Turkish Treaty Discussed; Musselmen Required To Sign As Drafted

GERMANS ANGRY

Newspapers Insist Terms Are Impossible, Especially Coal Orders

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 12.—M. Millerand, in the course of a statement to press representatives at Spa, declared that there was perfect agreement amongst the Allies in every point of view and that relations between France and Belgium were increasingly cordial.

The Premier, while pointing out the difficulties which the Allies had had to overcome in dealing with Germany at the Conference emphasised the firm resolve on the part of the Allies, to enforce the execution of the Treaty of Versailles and also, while taking into account that war was at an end, their determination not to give the Germans any loophole for evasions or delays, which might compromise the spirit of the treaty.

NO WISH TO HARM

M. Millerand declared that the Allies had no interest in the weakening of Germany and that they were ready to do everything in their power to aid her economically. M. Millerand, however, added:

"The debtor must acquit himself of the debt of 2,500,000,000 francs to Belgium." Referring to the Franco-Belgium Alliance, the Premier said that French experts were engaged in giving the finishing touches to their report on this subject.

"We have every reason to be satisfied," he added in conclusion.

TURKISH TREATY

Spa, July 11.—The conference this morning discussed the Turkish treaty. The Allied reply to the Ottoman note was finally settled. The Turks are required to sign the Treaty as drafted, with unimportant modifications. The note will be presented to the Turks on July 17 when both notes will be published in Paris and London.

GERMAN PRESS ANGRY

Berlin, July 10.—The newspapers are most indignant at the Allies' coal demands, which they declare to be impossible.

Dr. Gessler and General von Seeckt were present at a conference at the President's residence on Saturday morning, after which it was reported that the conference recognised the necessity for taking drastic measures regarding disarmament.

There is much talk here of breaking off the negotiations at Spa, but the tendency is to leave responsibility for such action to the delegates remaining at Spa.

DISARMAMENT, TOO

Berlin, July 10.—The German press is very wrathful owing to the attitude of the Entente, especially in the matter of disarmament. Some of the papers declare that the Allied demands cannot be fulfilled. It is obvious that the German hope of dissension amongst the Allies has been bitterly disappointed.

WAR CRIMINALS

Spa, July 10.—It is learned from an authoritative British source that Great Britain's only desire in the question of war criminals is to establish principles of justice and uphold the international rights of civilised warfare.

Forty-five names have been selected as especially bad prima facie cases. It is declared that if the latter are properly tried thereby establishing the principle prescribed, there will be no desire on the part of the Allies to multiply cases.

FRANCE IS FIRST

Paris, July 10.—The special correspondent of the Havas Agency at Spa states: "The Allied coal demands provide for Germany recognising France's right of priority in coal deliveries. France is to

LORD FISHER

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 10.—The death is announced of Admiral of the Fleet, Lord Fisher, at the age of 79 years.

Admiral Lord Fisher, Senior Admiral of the British Grand Fleet, and probably the greatest strategist, with the possible exception of Admiral Nelson, that the British Empire has ever produced, died yesterday at his home in England, aged 79 years.

He entered the navy in 1854 and was a veteran of the Crimean, Egyptian and China wars, reaching the peak of naval attainment in 1914, when he was appointed the First Sea Lord of the Admiralty for the war against Germany.

His record shows that he was made a Lieutenant in 1860, shortly

JAPS TAKE LAST PORT

Possiet Bay Occupied By Nipponese, Is Report; New "Red" Ministers

(Reuter's Service)

Vladivostok, July 10.—Chinese bandits have attacked a village near Nikolaievsk, robbing the inhabitants and setting fire to a hundred houses. The Japanese sent a detachment from Nikolaievsk to the scene of the raid; but, on their arrival, they found that the bands had decamped.

Foreign firms in Vladivostok are still closed, but so far the inconvenience has not been felt. The Russians have commenced dealing in foodstuffs, formerly in the hands of Chinese.

Although the rouble has depreciated living expenses have increased. The unions have agreed to the same wage-scale for June in order to assist the financial situation.

General Bochkaroff and his staff are expected to arrive in Vladivostok shortly, under escort. They will be handed over to the authorities for trial.

MORE JAP TROOPS

Washington, July 8.—It is officially reported that Japanese troops have occupied Possiet Bay (south of Vladivostok) which is stated to be the last first-rate harbor north of Port Arthur remaining in the possession of Russia.

NEW MINISTERS

(By Russia News Agency)

Vladivstok July 7.—The new Ministers of the Vladivostok Provisional Government are Mr. Binasik, the Premier; Mr. Zimmerman, Minister of Finance; and Mr. Vinogradoff, Minister of Foreign Affairs.

The local Consular Corps disapproves of the boycott of the new Russian bank-notes by the Japanese and Chinese residents. A number of foreign firms have changed their attitude and expressed the desire to discontinue boycotting.

The Chinese workmen are resuming work. An anti-boycott committee has been formed by the prominent citizens and public organisations to support the Government and to stabilise the new paper money.

Empress Eugenie, Napoleon's Widow, Dead At 94 Years

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 12.—The death is announced from Madrid of the Empress Eugenie, widow of the Emperor Napoleon III, at the age of 94.

The King of Spain who is now in London, has intimated his desire that the funeral shall take place with royal honors.

Marie Eugenie de Guzman y de Porto-Carrero, Condesa de Teba and Marquesa de Moya, was born in Granada, Spain, on May 5, 1826, the daughter of Cyprien, Count de Montijo, Duke de Peneruada, and Maria Manuela Kirkpatrick of Closeburn, Scotland. Her mother was a daughter of William Kirkpatrick, United States Consul at Malaga—a Scotchman by birth and American by nationality.

Eugenie was married to Napoleon III (Louis Napoleon), Emperor of the French, in Paris on January 29, 1853. Her romance with the Prince-President followed a courtship begun at the series of famous dances given by him at the Elysee, shortly after his elevation to the Presidency.

At that time Eugenie was a dashing, beautiful and highly intelligent young woman, whom Napoleon chose in preference, as he said from the throne, to "a woman unknown to me, with whom an alliance would have had advantages mixed with sacrifices."

On the collapse of the Second Empire the Empress Eugenie fled to England with her husband and infant son, who was subsequently killed in the Zulu War. When her husband died she built a mausoleum to his memory at Farnsborough, where she subsequently lived in retirement, broken only by occasional visits to a small villa at Cap Martin, on the Riviera.

The Empress made no attempt to inject herself into European politics following the finish of her brilliant career as the consort of Napoleon III.

FOCH IN CONFERENCE

Plucky Little Country Has 300,000 Answers To Volunteer Call

(Reuter's Service)

Spa, July 10.—The Polish delegation has received a note from its government expressing willingness on the part of Poland to conclude peace with the Soviet Russia on the basis of self-determination of peoples.

Marshal Foch conferred with Polish Premier and military experts today.

Spa, July 11.—After hearing the Polish Premier, M. Grabski, the Allies have proposed to the Soviet Government to conclude an armistice with Poland on condition that the Poles retire within their legitimate boundaries, the armistice to be followed by a peace conference of all the border states.

If the Soviet refuses or attacks the Poles within the latter's borders, the Allies will support the Poles to the fullest degree.

Warsaw, July 11.—The communique issued today says:

"Under strong enemy pressure the Poles have fallen back from the Beresina line. The Bolshevists crossed the Pripet, but were driven back with heavy losses.

"South of the Pripet we have fallen back to the other side of Horyn. The enemy has occupied Sarny. We have fallen back in Podolia according to plan."

300,000 VOLUNTEERS

Warsaw, July 11.—The first day of intensified recruiting has yielded 300,000 volunteers.

SLOWLY RETREAT

Warsaw, July 10.—Today's communique says:

"The Polish troops, whilst counter-attacking, are slowly retreating on the line of the principal Bolshevik attack, namely, Molkdetchno-Orsha-Borysow.

"The enemy's efforts to force the Beresina near Bobruisk have been repelled."

ARMISTICE PLANNED

Spa, July 11.—French circles here state that Mr. Lloyd George has decided to request the Soviet Government to conclude an armistice with Poland and that, in the event of a refusal, he will offer the Poles British assistance.

REDS BREAK THRU

Berlin, July 9.—A telegram received here from Tilsit states that the Bolsheviks after severe fighting have broken through the Polish northern front and have crossed the Beresina at three points. Panic holds sway in Vilna. The Bolshevik successes are causing anxiety in Lithuania, and troops have been sent to the eastern frontier.

FURLOUGHS STOP

Warsaw, July 10.—All leave has been stopped in the Army and in Government offices. Volunteers continue to enrol en masse.

Many Japs Smuggled Into U.S. Says Phelan

(Reuter's Service)

San Francisco, July 12.—The Congressional Immigration Committee has opened its inquiry into the Japanese problem.

Senator Phelan testified that he had visited several Californian towns on the Mexican border and had found evidence of the smuggling of Japanese into the United States.

He alleged that the Japanese Consul at Los Angeles had been connected with the smuggling of Japanese, (who had arrived direct from Japan) into the United States through Los Angeles harbor.

Senator Phelan declared that the Japanese had 26 Buddhist temples in California.

Mr. John P. Irish, public defender of the Japanese, and author of many tracts supporting Japanese activities in California, was the second witness to be called. He replied to Senator Phelan's statements.

S.N.R. RESUMES TRAFFIC; LOCAL TEA-POT TEMPEST IS OVER; NORTH SEEING REAL WAR AS TUAN FLEES

Marshal Tuan Chi-jui

Three times he was Premier of the Chinese Republic, known as "The War Lord of the Anfu Clique," which has bartered away many valuable national resources to Japan during its existence of less than three years.

Tuan is reported to be fleeing to Kalgan, following the refusal of his troops to make a stand against the Chihli militarists, led by Tsao Kun and Chang Tso-lin.

Fight Not Yet Over, Says Tang Shao-yi, Who Doubts Anfu Power Is Destroyed

Recent Developments, Southern Leader Thinks, Only Pause In Situation Still Critical And Holding Menace Of Open War

Happenings of the past 36 hours both at Peking and in this province, mark only a pause in the bitter intricate conflict between the Chihli and the Anfu factions. This is the belief of Tang Shao-yi, Southern leader, former Premier and head of the South's peace delegation, who holds firmly to the opinion that widespread warfare is an imminent probability, and that the situation is today no less grave than it has been in recent days.

All reports that have come from Peking in recent hours tell of the downfall of Marshal Tuan, of the failure of the efforts of the Anfu militarists, of the victory of the Chihli men, and here nearer home Commissioner Ho has called back his troops, Tuchun Li and Tuchun Lu are said to have reached a truce and the situation again has taken on every aspect of tranquility.

A PASSING PHASE

"It is only a passing phase," Mr. Tang said yesterday, and he added that he was unwilling to believe yet that Tuan's power is broken, that the Anfu Club, which so long has piloted the destinies of the Chinese Government, has at length run its course.

"No solution, no decision, has yet been reached," Mr. Tang declared. "It may be that there is the appearance of a victory or—here near Shanghai—the appearance of peace restored. The railway line that was torn up has been replaced, the trains are running again and troops have been withdrawn." He waved an expressive hand.

"Still they may fight—tomorrow—the next day—who knows? Following the thought he expressed in a recent interview he again said that both sides are strong and in his view a clash impends.

WARFARE PROBABLE

"The situation seems to call for the spilling of much blood. If they really are in earnest they will fight. They must." Mr. Tang went on to give the basis for the opinion he expressed.

"Two open threats have been given, one by each side," he explained. Neither has yet finally been carried out and neither has been explained away. This may be done, of course, and agreements may be come to, and peace may be effected, but these things have not yet happened.

"The coup in Hunan was the challenge to the Anfuites. The demand of Tuan upon President Hsu was the challenge given in reply. The outcome of Gen. Wu Pei-fu's move remains undeveloped. Tuan's demand that General Wu Pei-fu with the Tsao brothers, Tuchun Tsao Kun and his aide, Tsao Ying, be surrendered and punished—and remember, Tuan said it was to himself that these three must be turned over and punished—must be reckoned with.

"Apologies can be given, naturally, explanations may be offered, and the saving of face can be brought about, possibly—and then they may have compromises, agreements and peace. But none of these things has yet been carried out and until they are the controversy will continue.

"So long as there is danger of strife in Peking there will exist the same menace here near Shanghai, for the trouble in these provinces merely is an echo of the conflict at the capital.

SEES NEW ANGLE

While discussing the struggle of the two northern parties Mr. Tang voiced one observation that may be taken as significant.

"Whether they fight or not," he remarked thoughtfully, "there exists the possibility that both Anfuites and Chihli factions ultimately may lose."

Explaining this he referred to those Chinese leaders who have remained silent while the present political storm has been gathering.

"These neutrals may come forward," he observed. "In any case the country and the people know that this is a fight between mili-

MILITARISTS HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR RAILWAY DAMAGE DURING STOPPAGE

Jardine, Matheson And Co. Files Claim Through British Legation

ONLY FARMERS ARE HURT

Innocent Countrymen Near Scene Hard Hit As Troops Advance

LI AND LU COMPROMISING

Terms Reached By Wire And Each Will Refrain From Attacking Other

The local political tempest subsided yesterday when traffic along the Shanghai-Nanking Railway was restored at noon and troops of the tenth division were withdrawn from Quinsan to the Arsenal at Lunghua. The damage done to civilians during the suspension of the service in two and half days was already considerable.

While prices of foodstuffs soared because of the non-arrival of trains, merchandise was held up at various warehouses awaiting shipment to the interior. It will be sometime yet before conditions can become normal.

Martial law is in full force in Chinese territory. The only war declared seems to be against the civilians.

FARMERS SUFFER

The farmers and countrymen in Quinsan, Wongdu, Nanziang and Henli, however, are the worst sufferers. Their fields were rendered barren by the heroic warriors. Trenches were dug through their farms to give shelter to the opposing forces. The acquisitive faculty is, of course, highly developed with all the gallant soldiers. Yet the countrymen cannot protest. They are destined to suffer. Their feeble voice could never be raised to reach the ears of the brave officers. They have only their own weaknesses to blame.

Now the withdrawal on both sides is said to be complete; the Chekiang contingent to Shanghai and the Kiangsu units to Soochow. The countrymen will now re-construct whatever the troops have destroyed. They will have to fill the trenches, trim their farms and gather whatever harvest may be left to them by the defenders of peace.

PROFITEERING HERE

Locally the only people who profited by the struggle were the exchange shopkeepers and the hotel owners. The exchange men promptly placed the value of government bank notes below par and some even refused to honor them, causing a run on the two Chinese government banks, which handled the situation most admirably. The hotels have been crowded ever since the suspension of the traffic.

Even the soldiers who were sent on the expedition did not seem to enjoy the trip. When seen at the Arsenal yesterday, they seemed to be tired, dirty and irritated by the strenuous work they were engaged in during the two and half long days.

DAMAGE ASKED

Messrs. Jardine, Matheson and Company has lodged a protest with the British Legation through the local British Consul-General on behalf of the British interests in the Shanghai-Nanking Railway. The message holds the Chinese authorities responsible for the damage done to the rails and rolling stock as well as the deficiency in the receipts as a result of the suspension of the service for two and half days.

A copy of the letter has been addressed to the Shanghai Nanking Railway administration by Messrs. Jardine, Matheson and Co.

As soon as the Chekiang and Kiangsu troops round Henli and Quinsan received orders from their respective headquarters that Generals Li and Lu had arrived at a compromise and agreed to resume the traffic along the Shanghai-Nanking Railway, engineers and workmen rushed down to the scene and worked all night Monday night and yesterday morning. By noon yesterday, all the damaged portions were repaired and the 12:45 Nanking bound train left on time without a hitch.

French Independence Day Ushered In With Colorful Night Parade In Shanghai

Glowing Lanterns, Weird And Fantastic Transparencies, Blaring Bands And Happy Surging Throngs Are Features Of Anniversary

Impregnated with the bizarre coloration of the Far East, the brilliancy and vivacity natural to the French and still lacking none of the dignity of the nation's historic heroism, the members of the French community in Shanghai, ably seconded by their friends, last night began the celebration of the anniversary of France's independence, the Fall of the Bastille.

Through streets and avenues teeming with humanity, the gorgeous parade made its way. The sight was spectacular. Bands blared, torches shot weird lights into the surrounding darkness, fantastic transparencies in imitation of beasts and fowl and fish were carried aloft and a writhing dragon wriggled and squirmed among the marchers. There were thousands of lanterns borne by the Chinese Scouts and other divisions of the parade and the Fire Departments turned out in full strength with freshly enameled, polished brass fitted and electrically illuminated and decorated apparatus that gave a finish to the spectacle.

FIREMEN TO COMPETE

The International Settlement firemen united with their French comrades in making the parade a success. One machine was a camouflaged gun from which confetti was fired by compressed air. On another a garden rookery was reproduced. A third had mounted a mast from which streamers flowed and lights flashed and others bore searchlights and flowers and flags. In all it was a gala show. Dynamos were fitted to the machines to generate the current for the special lighting effects and the firemen were in their parade attire.

Today the firemen are to participate in the sporting events. There will be a tug-o'-war between ten foreign members of the Shanghai Brigade and ten volunteers in the French Brigade for a best two out of three. There will also be a contest between teams of eleven Chinese from the Hongkew division who recently won the inter-departmental contest, and eleven French volunteers. And then the firemen of the two brigades will engage in a game of "jet ball."

Everywhere in the French Concession were to be seen evidences of the preparation for the celebration, the main features of which are to take place today. Illuminated towers were erected along the line of march, the business houses, cafes and residences were gay with flags and pennants and lights and the spirit of the festival was evidenced in every conceivable manner.

CROWDS DENSE BUT HAPPY

Although the crowds were dense the police found little difficulty in handling them and the evening events were carried out without serious mishap.

After wending its way through the principal thoroughfares of Frenchtown the parade arrived at the grounds of the Cercle Sportif Francais where it disbanded. Before the order to disband was issued one of the several bands in the assemblage mounted the

Canada Prepares Soviet Contracts

(Reuter's Service)

Montreal, July 10.—The Canadian syndicate which recently obtained a $6,000,000 contract from the Soviet Government, announced today that the question of credit has been satisfactorily arranged and that at the present time arrangements were being completed for the carrying out of the contract.

Villa Is Again "Bottled," Report

were kept hot with messages to and from the military governors, discussing the terms of the compromise. Among the important clauses of the arrangement are the withdrawal of all advanced troops to their original post within 24 hours from Monday noon, the protection of life and property during the political crisis in Peking, the recall of all scouts sent out to the advanced posts and leaving the question of the appointment of the Shanghai Defense Commissioner to Peking without insisting on the appointment of their own favorites.

The last unit sent out to Quinsan from the Arsenal returned to its original post yesterday at 6 o'clock. The Arsenal band played as it marched in. According to the soldiers, all the Kiangsu soldiers at Heuli have gone back to Soochow. Both Tuchuns, however, are still stationing troops at all the railway bridges under the protest that these points need protection.

Tuchun Li of Kiangsu has marched a regiment of artillery across the Yangtsze and stationed the forces in the vicinity of Pukow. The unit has two field guns. He has also delegated Commander Wang Chi-fung to call on General Lu of Chekiang and General Ho of Shanghai to eradicate the former misunderstandings.

CHIHLI VICTORY

Up North the Chihli faction succeeded in turning the tables without giving much trouble to the Red Cross. The Anfuites are reported to have lost their battle because the pill that they had to swallow at Kaopatien was too bitter for them. They decided to quit, leaving their warlord, Marshal Tuan, in the ditch. Tuan is reported to have decided to be a safe distance from General Wu Pei-fu's guns and is reported on his way to Kalgan, which is the southern gateway to wide, wide Mongolia, where no good Chihli military man cares to go.

Tsao Kun of Chihli and Chang Tso-lin of Fengtien today stand as the masters of the situation. Their demands which included the dissolution of the Anfu Parliament and the driving out of the three extreme Anfu ministers, Li Shih-hao, Chu Shen and Tseng Yu-tsing, will probably be complied with immediately.

UNION HOPELESS

What the nation is anxious to see now is the contructive program of the two military leaders. In this connection however little can be expected from them. Neither Tsao nor Chang has yet made a single move which may be considered constructive. Public opinion fears that the Anfu Clique is being substituted by another just as traitrous as its predecessor.

Upon his return to Mukden, General Chang Tso-lin has addressed lengthy telegrams to Old Hsu and Tuan Chi-jui, scoring the intriguers around them both. He demanded that Hsu and Tuan disentangle themselves from the dangerous Anfu element and threatened to march his forces against Peking if his demands are not carried out.

DEMANDS ARE MADE

"If my armed mediation is insufficient to awaken the President and the Marshal," said he, "I shall be compelled to resort to arms. Then the public will know on which side the blame for starting the internal strife should be fixed."

Chang has ordered the arrest of Hsu Ting-chia, managing director of the Peking Mukden Railway, for offering his railroad receipts to the Anfuite army. He has appointed Wu Chu-fang to succeed him.

Old Hsu is again seeking the assistance of General Chin Yung-fang to reach a compromise with Tsao Kun on behalf of Tuan, but Chin is not inclined to carry out the mission.

TSAO READY TO FIGHT

Tsao is making every preparation for eventualities, although he has cautioned his troops not to fire the offensive shot. He has torn up the railway bridge across the Yellow River, the longest one in China, in order to prevent Ma Liang's troops being despatched from Shantung to aid the Anfu Militarists.

The mediation of General Chiang Kwei-ti has failed. In a telegram to Old Hsu, Chiang stated that Tsao would not yield until Tuan is abolutely deprived of his military power. He would then retire himself and apologise to the public for taking up arms against a traitor of the nation.

TUAN HAS NO SUPPORT

The newly organised punitive expedition is getting no support. Besides the Border Defense Army, which is normally under Tuan and Little Hsu, the willing supporters are prevented from giving help on account of the railway smash-ups. Ma Liang of Shantung is checked at Tehchow, Ni Shih-chung is halted both by Wu Pei-fu and Shan Teh-chuan, while Chiang Kwei-ti's forces from Jehol have suddenly declared that they would limit their function to the protection of the Presidential Palace.

ITALIAN SALES

The Italian Legation has moved a detachment of marines from Tientsin to Peking together with four carloads of munitions. It is reported that munitions and the field gun which used to be set up at the Legation are being handed over to Tuan; and negotiations are being made to sell two Italian airplanes and a certain quantity of aerial explosive to the Anfu army.

A battalion of British troops stationed in Shanhaikwan have been ordered to duty in Tientsin and were expected to arrive there yesterday. Admiral Albert Gleaves, Commander-in-chief of the United States Asiatic Fleet, is now in Tientsin. There is at present one American gunboat in Peitsho and four American destroyers at Chingwangtao.

Large sums were converted yesterday but the amounts had not been announced last night. On Monday, however, the Bank of Communications converted $200,000 in notes into silver and the Bank of China did likewise with notes amounting to $400,000.

SOCIETIES SEND APPEAL

Commercial interests of Shanghai again have sought to enlist aid in the effort to bring an end to the strife between the Anfu and Chihli factions which already has seriously disrupted commerce. An appeal has been forwarded to the doyen of the Diplomatic Corps at Peking asking the foreign legations to intervene to prevent further loans by which the strife of the opposing factions may be continued. This appeal is signed by the following bodies:

Chinese Cotton Mill Owners' Association, Shanghai Bankers' Association, Kiangsu Educational Association, Shanghai City Chamber of Commerce, Shanghai Flour Millers' Association, Chamber of Commerce of Nantungchow, Chungmin, and Haimen, Shanghai Educational Association, Industrial Corporation of Nantungchow and Haimen, Shanghai Western Returned Students' Union, National Association of Vocational Education of China, World's Chinese Students' Federation, Paoshan Educational Association, Nantungchow Educational Association and Shanghai Fire Brigade Association.

The message says:

"Doyen, Diplomatic Corps, Peking.

"The threatened outbreak of hostility in North China is a most unfortunate affair which the Chinese people fully disapprove. As the Chinese and foreign trade can not but suffer from the effects of internal disturbance and as we believe that the struggle would not last long if foreign money and assistance be not given to the militarists, we earnestly request that Your Excellences will for the peace of the Far East take effective steps in preventive foreign money and aid of whatever nature being given them. In making this request we voice the general sentiment. Your early definite action will be greatly appreciated by the Chinese people."

Two Mainstays Of The Anti-Anfu Clique

Courtesy of "Who's Who In China"

GENERAL TSAO KUN

General Tsao Kun, Military Governor of Chihli, who became anti-Anfu from the day when the Anfu Parliament refused to pass him as the Vice-President of the Republic, is openly waging his war against the Anfuites. Among his demands were the dismissal of Little Hsu and the three extreme Anfu ministers in the present Cabinet and the dissolution of the Anfu Parliament.

Courtesy of "Who's Who In China"

GENERAL CHANG TSO-LIN

General Chang Tso-lin, erstwhile notorious bandit and now Inspector-General of the three Manchurian Provinces, made a historical visit to Peking recently in an attempt to break the Anfu hold on the Central Administration. Failing in his efforts, he has repaired to Mukden to resort to his force of arms. Chang like his opponent, Tuan Chi-jui, has Japanese aid, both financial and military.

REPORTS CENSORED

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 12.—If is a strange coincidence that today, when the third anniversary of the battle, in which the king-making General Chang Hsun was defeated and the Republic saved by Marshal Tuan Chi-jui, is being observed in Peking, public opinion should veer round in a notable manner in favor of General Wu Pei-fu.

Several influences have contributed to this change, amongst them the fact that uncertainty with regard to the attitude of Genera. Chang Tso-lin has been removed by a circular telegram from Mukden, in which General Chang Tso-lin reviews the present situation and lectures General Tsao Kun an. Marshall Tuan Chi-jui, blaming the latter as the greater offender and threatening that, if fighting ensues, he will be forced to resort to armed mediation. In minor encounters the Chihli troops have demonstrated their superiority over the Anfu troops.

DECISIVE SKIRMISH

A skirmish occurred yesterday at Kaopatien, which resulted in the Anfuites' outposts falling back on Liuliho. This is said to have had a discouraging influence on Marshal Tuan Chi-jui's troops, who are not keen on fighting.

Another incident, both important and amusing, occurred at Tehchow on July 10. General Ma Liang sent a detachment to seize Tehchow Arsenal. The detachment and its commander arrived at Tehchow and the latter informed General Shang Teh-chuan that he had been sent to seize the Arsenal. General Shang Teh-chuan advised him to return to Tsinantu and mind his own business. As the advice appeared to be good, it was followed. General Shang Teh-chuan, fearing the passage of frontier troops to the North, then tore up the railway.

TSAO JU-LIN WEEPS

Perhaps a significant test, indication of the falling morale of the Anfuites, is revealed by the visit to the Presidency this morning of Tsao Ju-lin, who, shedding tears, besought the President to issue a mandate forbidding hostilities.

The foregoing adds pungency to the report that General Chang Kwei-ti's mission of mediation to General Tsao Kun has proved abortive.

General Tsao Kun declined to compromise asserting that if he were victorious, he would demand the heads of Marshal Tuan Chi-jui and General Hsu Shu-tseng, but that, on the other hand, if he should be vanquished, he was willing that his and General Wu Pei-fu's heads should be sent to Peking.

FOOD PRICES UP

The interruption of several railways to Peking is interfering with food supplies and food prices are soaring. Representations are being made to the Diplomatic Corps with a view to insuring the passage of a certain number of food trains daily.

The Anfuites are securing transport labor by means of a press-gang, which is most unpopular though a daily wage of twenty-five cents is promised.

The Shun Tien Shih Pao reports that General Chang Hsun arrived at Chunlangchen yesterday and that General Chang Tso-lin has authorised him to command the Mukden forces in Shanhaikwan.

HINTS AT MONARCHY

Marshal Tuan Chi-jui has telegraphed to the provinces that General Tsao Kun contemplates attacking the capital with the object of restoring the monarchy with the co-operation of General Chang Hsun. The Chihli Party points out that General Chang Hsun's enmity to Marshal Tuan Chi-jui is sufficient incentive to him to join any movement against Marshal Tuan, without intruding monarchical ambitions, which do not enter into the present situation in any form.

Husband Hides $4,000 to Avoid Alimony; Youth Taps Cache

DURANGO, Col., April 26—Fearing that his wife might be granted immediate temporary alimony when she filed suit for divorce against him, Reinhold Thompson, well-to-do dairyman of this city, drew $4000 from the bank and hid it in a pig pen.

An employe on the Thompson ranch was watching Thompson when he buried the young fortune, and is now on the way to the state reformatory to serve a sentence following conviction of having tapped the cache of $3910.

BUILD HIGHWAYS IS ADVICE GIVEN BY CAR BUILDER

Son Of President Of Dort Motor Company Is Here To See Field

ROADS ARE BIG FACTOR

Michigan Manufacturer Sees Better Days For East In Near Future

Development of highways in the suburban districts is the great necessity that is facing Shanghai and China generally from the motor car standpoint, according to Mr. Ralph B. Dort, son of the president of the Dort Motor Company and representative of that great manufacturing concern at Flint, Michigan. Mr. Dort is a guest at the Astor House and expects to spend several weeks in Shanghai before resuming his journey through the Far East.

Mr. Dort was asked if it were the intention of his company to enter the Far Eastern field. He said that the purpose of his trip was merely to make a survey of conditions and that he had no intention of making local connections at this time.

MAY MAKE SPECIAL CARS

Possibility of specially constructed cars for the Far Eastern motorists was hinted at by the motor car manufacturer but he said there was little likelihood of such a plan being carried out until the highway system of the country is more fully developed.

"Picture Shanghai with 25,000 motor cars," said Mr. Dort. "And that would be fully as many as might be accommodated under present conditions. If there was a chance of even slight suburban travel the matter would have a different face. But the advantage of the light car, such as the Dort, is economy in fuel—particularly in a country like this where gasoline sells at such a high price—and, after all, there isn't so much difference in motive costs between heavy and light cars when they are used exclusively on city pavements.

LIKES STREETS HERE

"Speaking of streets, I must say that Shanghai affords a most pleasant surprise to the outlander upon his arrival here. You have an amazingly modern city; one that too little is known about by the rest of the world."

Mr. Dort is of the opinion that if the political situation can be adjusted and the nation interested in road construction the field here is limitless from a motor car standpoint. He pointed out that the "enthusiastic motorist," the man who likes to fuss with his own car, must be developed, but predicted that the time will be short until the automobile industry will see a great advance here. It is then, he believes, that the low priced, economical car will come fully into its own in the Orient.

Justice Court Of League Of Nations Beyond Reproach

(Reuter's Service)

The Hague, July 9.—The International Committee of Jurists of the League of Nations reports that it has fixed the fundamental composition of the International Court of Justice.

The Advisory Committee discussed the status of judges and came to the tentative conclusion that, as the Court must be kept free from political influences, the judges could not be removed except for inability to discharge their duties, and that a unanimous vote of the Court was requisite for their dismissal.

The Court will elect its President and Vice-President, who will be appointed for a period of three years at the end of which they will be eligible for re-election.

Silk Strikers Back At Work When Raise In Wages Is Granted

Strikers in the silk filatures in Chapel returned to work when they were granted an increase of three cents a day. This is approximately a raise of 10 percent in wages.

The labor situation is much improved and most of the strikers have returned to work. Food costs have not advanced and, in the case of inferior rice, have descended. Since Saturday this grade of rice has dropped $1.35 a picul and is now being sold at $10.60, according to police averages based on reports from 18 shops. Standard rice remains steady at an average of $13.90.

Railroad Supplies Going To Russia Must Be Licensed

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, July 9.—The State Department announcement, removing trade restrictions with Russia, adds, in addition to the exception made for material which can be used for war purposes, that individual licenses are required for the export of locomotives and railroad material.

The decision was reached after communications with Great Britain and France. The State Department emphasizes that this concession does not entail political recognition of any one in particular of the Russian authorities.

Girl Chooses Death Rather Than Loveless Marriage; Her Sweetheart To Face Court

Nineteen-year-old Tsang-kwe was betrothed by her parents to a man she had never seen.

It was the custom, as she well knew, and from childhood she had accepted with resignation her future as mapped out by her family.

But foreign ways and foreign customs had come into the land.

Little Tsang looked about her with wide open eyes that saw much that was invisable to the older generation.

She learned to read and write and came to accept many of the foreigners ways as good.

Then came the man.

He is Nyi Ah-sz, a handsome young chap with charming manners. And he is a past-master in the art of love-making. An Oriental who, had he chosen the screen, might have been another Francis X. Bushman.

Tsang looked upon him and he was fair to her sight.

He looked upon Tsang and swore that she should be his.

Then came the disillusionment. She was bethrothed to another and the wedding day was rapidly approaching.

"We will flee together," cried the girl.

"It is not to be that your honorable family should be so disgraced," firmly determined Nyi.

"I will end my life," sobbed the girl. "The man they have chosen for me I cannot love; I love you and you alone. I must be yours or I shall die."

Nyi believed the threat an empty one.

But it was not.

Obtaining a quantity of opium sufficient to prove fatal the maid ran to the house of the man whose son it was designed she should wed. There she took the poison and fell dead.

Nyi is under arrest on a charge of having caused the girl to end her life. American Assessor Jacobs and Magistrate Li, in the Mixed Court yesterday, remanded the case to the British assessor, he having conducted the inquest.

In the meantime lawyers, court officials and laymen are awaiting a judgment that will determine whether or not natural passions come within the letter of the law, whether love can be guided by legal tomes and whether the suicide of a love-sick girl is chargable to object of her maidenly affections.

JAPANESE DIET VETOS SUFFRAGE BY 286 TO 155

Riot Follows, During Which Many Are Injured; One Dead, Is Report

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 12.—The Universal Suffrage Bill was introduced again in the House of Representatives today by the Opposition but was swamped by the Government Party. The bill was defeated by 286 votes to 155.

There were extraordinary scenes during the debate. A Seiyukai member, who was intoxicated, raised a commotion and was ejected. Later an Independent member, who was also intoxicated, made a speech in support of the bill. There was great disorder and the Opposition moved that the Speaker was incompetent to control the House. The motion was defeated.

GREAT EXCITEMENT

Tonight excited crowds, consisting of many thousands of students, workers and political agitators, met in the Shiba Park near the Diet Building. This park is famous in the political history of Tokio.

Those who attempted to address the crowd were dragged down by the police and some choked to insensibility. One man is reported to have been strangled.

The excitement increased and the district, surrounding the Diet, was occupied by troops, some 3,000 police and gendarmes heading off the crowds from the Diet Buildings.

MANY CONFLICTS

When the police were dispersing the crowd from the Park, many minor conflicts occurred.

A large number of persons were injured and scores arrested. The police are now in full control.

The citizens in general did not take part in the disturbances.

Returned Briton Tells How Japan Values Alliance

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 9.—The Commercial Committee of the House of Commons gave a luncheon today in honor of Sir John Randles, who has just returned from a visit to the Far East, and presented him with an illuminated address.

Replying to his health, Sir John Randles said that he had been the recipient of great kindness, courtesy and friendship in Japan. He declared that the imitation by Japanese traders of British trademarks was reprobated by the Japanese and that he had been informed that the Japanese Government was ready to legislate to prevent this.

Sir John Randles emphasised how highly the Japanese valued the alliance with Great Britain.

CALIFORNIA GLEE CLUB BOYS SCORE HIT IN MANILA

Individuals of the California Glee Club which will arrive here Sunday for a five nights' engagement at the Olympic Theater and will in the same week stage a base ball series with the Shanghai Club, scored tremendous hits in the club's appearance in the Philippines.

One of the outstanding stars is Dave Phennig, the California Glee Club's eccentric violinist, who charmed Shanghai audiences on the club's preliminary appearance here. Word was received in Shanghai yesterday by one of the local producers that Manila was captivated by the jazz of the California lad, as well as by his technique in his classical work. The native Filipinos were particularly taken by Phennig's playing. On the occasion of his last appearance before 3,000 Philippine University students, Phennig had to respond to seven encores.

Phenning is a Los Angeles boy and has played the violin almost from infancy. He did a great amount of concert work in Southern California before coming to college. He has just finished his first year in the college of medicine.

A working mate of Phennig's who has won a large amount of praise on the Glee Club's trip through the Far East is Charles Strickfaden, saxaphonist. Strickfaden is a member of the well-known McCoy-Phennig-Strickfaden trio. His rendition of Kreisler's "Cradle Song" in his recent appearance here was warmly received.

English Gas Men Again On Strike

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 10.—A serious situation has arisen in the Midlands owing to a gasworkers' strike at Manchester, Salford, Bury, Stoke, Huddersfield and elsewhere. The strike is due to dissatisfaction with the recent increase in wages.

Scores of workshops in Manchester and Salford are closed and thousands of workers are without employment.

The hospitals are suffering badly and only urgent operations are being performed.

SOME RETURN

The strikers at Wigan have returned to work in response to an urgent appeal from the Mayor. The strike has been declared against the advice of the men's leaders.

A threatened strike of the employes of the London Water Board has been averted by the Board's agreeing to submit to arbitration the men's claim for a minimum wage of £4 a week.

250,000 ARE OUT

London, July 11.—The gas strike has spread to Bristol and Weston-super-Mare. The number of unemployed in Manchester is estimated at a quarter of a million.

BASEBALL CLUB AWAITS ARRIVAL OF CALIFORNIANS

First Of Three-Game Series To Be Played Sunday—Bolsheviki Lose

Whether the University of California Glee Club boys can play ball as well as they can sing will be demonstrated to Shanghai fans Sunday afternoon, when the collegians cross bats with the Shanghai Club in the first of a three-game series on the diamond. The second and third games will be played Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

The Californians had games scheduled in the Philippines with the Philippine University nine, and several clubs of army tossers, but rain during their entire stay in the Islands prevented them from playing a single contest.

MORSE IS COACH

"Brick" Morse, director of the club and himself the winner of the "C" in baseball during his varsity days at California, will coach the Blue and Gold tossers. In all probability he will send Pianist McCoy into the box for the first fracas. McCoy was a churcher on the U. C. varsity squad last year and has a world of speed and a bagful of wicked curves. Charlie Strickfaden, champ saxaphonist, will toss a few during the second game.

The probable lineup for the musicians in the opening game follows:

REGULARS WIN

The score was three to two when the worm turned yesterday afternoon at the Race Course and the Regulars just did manage to nose out the Bolshevik gang. The contest was full of brilliant plays. Claire, who played third for the Reds, cut off several hard hit balls that looked tagged for at least several bags. Tinkham in center was also a bright spot in the game. Billsie hit one to the outfield that had home run written all over the ball. Tink after a long sprint pulled it down much to everybody's amazement.

The fans gave him a big hand when he came to the bench. Both teams were full of fight and pep and it was a sure enough game with both teams working their hardest to win.

Rugh of the American School hooked up with Gill and it was a pitcher's battle until the last inning when the winning run was scored by clean hitting. The Regulars could not do much with the youngster's curves and only secured five hits off his delivery. Gill held the opposition to three scattered bingles.

Altogether it was a game worth looking at and with the teams in their present form a fighting aggregation will make up the nine that will give the Collegians a bitter tussle next Sunday afternoon.

48-HOUR WEEK FOR SEAMEN TURNED DOWN

(Reuter's Service)

Genoa, July 11.—The International Seamen's Conference today decided by 48 votes to 25 in favor of an eight-hour day and a forty-eight-hour week at sea but a two-thirds majority was required.

The British Government delegates voted against the motion and the Australian and Canadian delegates in favor. The Indian delegates all left the hall prior to a division.

The Conference yesterday adopted all the articles of the convention, relating to hours of work at sea.

There was an animated discussion with reference to Indian seamen, the Indian Government claiming special treatment for them on the ground of differences of climate, habits and customs.

The other delegates urged that such a course would involve unfair competition with white sailors unless the employment of Indians was confined to the Indian trade.

Other draft conventions, adopted, dealt with prohibition of the employment of children under 14 years of age, the establishment of a National Seamen's Code, the limitation of working hours in inland navigation, compensation for seamen in the case of loss of vessels and unemployment insurance.

THREATEN BOYCOTT

Genoa, July 11, (Later).—Certain delegates of the Seamen's Congress are threatening a strike and lockout against the countries whose votes defeated the 48-hour week convention. These delegates propose to undertake an active campaign to carry the International Seamen's meeting which opens in Amsterdam on August 5, in favor of compelling British shipowners who form the bulk of the opposition to the 48 hour plan, to capitulate.

KAIFENG SEEING MUCH SOLDIERY

Presence Of Troops, However, No Check On Activities Of Brigands

(China Press Correspondence)

Kaifeng, Honan, July 9.—Travelers on the Peking-Hankow Railway have evidence that something unusual is in the air. The soldiers of Wu Pei-fu fill the stations from Chengchow south and bodies of soldiers are drawn up in each station as the train passes with plenty of trumpet blowing at all hours of the night. I am told that no Anfu soldier is allowed to ride on the road.

However all these soldiers did not prevent a hundred robbers from raiding the station at Su Chiao, 50 miles south of Chengchow on the night of July 4, killing two and wounding one of the guards. They decamped with guns, munitions and money, which they secured.

A Chinese railway conductor on the Kinhan line made bitter complaints of the conduct of soldiers who pay no fare, occupy expensive compartments and often took women with them, without payment. He voiced the wish that he could have the assistance of the foreigners, as on the Lunghai Road. On this latter road, soldiers are obliged to pay because there is a French or Belgium inspector on practically every train.

The price of foodstuffs is soaring rapidly.

Russian Artists In Concert At Y.M.C.A.

Music lovers were delighted with a concert that was given at the Y. M. C. A. last night by a group of Russian artists. Mme. S. Markovsky, soprano, Mme. T. Nikolaevsky, contralto, Mr. N. Tuevsky, tenor, and Mr. V. Volin, baritone, were the vocalists. Mr. Solls was the accompanist. Mr. Michnevitch was also to have assisted at the piano but was prevented from doing so by illness.

The program was exceptionally well balanced and was sung in a thoroughly satisfactory manner before an appreciative audience. Many encores were demanded and the singers were most gracious in their responses.

Caution says:

"PROTECT YOUR RECORDS—YOUR FIRE MAY COME NEXT!"

Records, accounts and other documents represent the day-to-day history of business. Many of them are irreplaceable—priceless. Their existence demands that they be adequately safe-guarded.

Any container would suffice if fire never came. But fire does come. It comes without warning, destroys and is gone. Thus you buy record protection for one day only—the day when fire visits you.

THE SAFE-CABINET

Have the courage to face your conscience. Know that your records would remain intact if fire came at any hour. Investigate the facts about record protection and how THE SAFE-CABINET supplies the safety you must have.

illuminated stand opposite the French Club grounds and played the Marsaillaise.

An interesting feature of the celebration was the appearance of a tram car on the French lines which had been decorated for the occasion. Studded with electric lights, in red, white and blue and embowered in evergreen and blossoms, the car was one of the most attractive items in an ensemble that was beyond criticism.

GAIETY AT CLUB

Although there was no set programme for the evening at the French Club, the veranda and club house were filled with guests throughout the evening and a delightful, though informal, celebration was held there. The club house was decorated especially for the occasion with electric lights, flags and streamers and presented a most attractive appearance.

Today's events are awaited with the keenest interest, not only by the members of the French Concession but by those of the International Settlement and the Chinese as well. It is planned that today's anniversary celebration shall be made memorable as marking the appreciation of the people of the allied nations of what France suffered and accomplished in the World War.

CHINESE TO PARTICIPATE

The Shanghai Federated Street Unions has issued a notice to all shopkeepers in the International and French Settlements, requesting them to hoist the national colors today in observation of France's Independance Day. The message stated that France was the first country to have a Republican form of Government and as a true disciple of democracy, the nation should show her respect by observing the celebration.

A number of organisations will send delegates to offer their congratulations to the French Consul-General this morning.

BAND PROGRAM

Bandits Infest Bosphorus Shores

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 10.—Reports from Constantinople show the increasing impudence of the bands of robbers, which are infesting the Asiatic shores of the Bosphorus.

These bands are estimated to be at least a thousand strong.

Strong bands are plundering and burning villages. They have had several encounters with our patrols but the country is very difficult and there is little hope of improvement in the situation unless cavalry is available to sweep the whole region.

GREEKS WIN BRUSSA

Constantinople, July 10.—The Greeks have occupied Brussa unopposed. Numbers of Nationalists surrendered.

All the Government forces at Constantinople have been disarmed without resistance by order of General Sir G. F. Milne, owing to their instability.

WRANGEL A WINNER

Constantinople, July 9.—General Wrangel's troops have occupied Berdiansk on the Sea of Azov.

Fight Not Yet Over, Says Tang Shao-yi, Who Doubts Anfu Power Is Destroyed

tarists. Whichever side wins, the victory, one way or the other, leaves the nation in the grip of militarism and militarism is a thing that no one wants."

The southern leader spoke of Chang Tso-lin, who has remained aloof from both sides and critical of both, as a factor of the first importance in the present situation. It is possible, Mr. Tang suggested, that action that this Manchurian Tuchun might see fit to take would in the end destroy the aims of both Anfuites and Chibli men.

DOUBTFUL FACTOR

Where Chang Tso-lin stands in the controversy, he said, continued to be a doubtful question. Admitting the possibility that Nipponese influence may be a factor in this quarter, he added that personally he did not feel sure that this is the case, though he offered the canny observation that "if the Japanese are taking action, then it is sure that they are giving aid to both sides."

If Chang Tso-lin has come under the sway of Japanese influence, Mr. Tang said he was of the opinion that probably the northern Tuchun would do nothing in the present controversy.

"He may be pro-Chinese, though," he added. He referred to the large forces Chang Tso-lin controls and to his resources for moving southward. "So he might move against both sides," he said.

Merchant Marine Bill Defended By Commerce Senator

(Reuter's Service)

New York, July 9.—In the course of a statement, issued in Washington, Senator W. L. Jones, chairman of the Senate Committee of Commerce, declares that the new shipping law does not discriminate against ships of any nation, but gives aid to the American merchant marine as a domestic industry.

The provisions of the bill give "most favored nation" treatment to all foreign vessels, but they will not receive, and are not entitled to receive, the national treatment accorded to United States ships.

The bill, Senator Jones continued, is a measure to aid American ships to compete successfully with foreign vessels for the privilege of carrying part of the country's foreign trade, and to insure that American ships shall transport all merchandise moving between ports in the United States and its possessions.

KING PLEDGES BRITAIN'S BEST FOR PALESTINE

Message Read At Jerusalem Tells Of "Deep Interest" In New Mandatory

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 11.—The King's message to Palestine, read before an imposing assemblage at Jerusalem yesterday by Sir Herbert Samuel, the High Commissioner, begins by recalling that the Allies have entrusted to Great Britain the mandate to watch over the interests of Palestine and to insure to that country the peaceful and prosperous development which have so long been denied to it.

The message recalls proudly the large part that British troops, under Field Marshal Lord Allenby, played in freeing Palestine from Turkish rule, and declares that His Majesty will indeed rejoice if he and his people can also be the instruments of bringing within Palestine's reach the blessings of wise and liberal administration.

HAIR TO ALL

The message gives the assurance that the duties of mandatory power will be carried out with absolute impartiality, and that the British Government is determined to respect the rights of every race and creed in Palestine in the future.

The measures for the gradual establishment of a national home of the Jewish people in Palestine will in no way affect the civil or religious rights or diminish the prosperity of the general population.

The King is confident that Sir Herbert Samuel will carry out these principles whole-heartedly and effectively, and will endeavor to promote in every way possible, the welfare and unity of all classes and sections.

REALIZES RESPONSIBILITY

The message concludes:

"I realise profoundly the solemnity of the trust involved in the government of a country which is sacred alike to Christian, Mohammedan and Jew; and I shall watch with deep interest and warm sympathy the future progress and development of a state whose history has been of such tremendous import to the world."

4½ TONS OF OPIUM TOSSED INTO FIRE

(China Press Correspondence)

Changteh, Hunan, June 30.—On June 29 General Feng Yu-hsiang consigned to the flames, in the sight of thousands of the people of Changteh, 106,066 ounces (Chinese) of opium. This would be nearly 9,000 pounds avoirdupois weight.

A notice was sent around by the General that the burning would take place outside the small west gate at noon on the 29th.

Long before that time the opium had been carried to the place under a strong guard and the throngs came early to get a glimpse of the loads of boxes with the drug.

Special places had been provided for the invited guests, including gentry, teachers, Chamber of Commerce members and foreigners.

The opium had been confiscated in 394 different raids, and no count was taken of the number of containers in which the drug was found.

Eight tins of kerosine oil aided in the work of destruction. The boxes burned up first and then the opium caught and it burned until midnight. The smell of the opium could be detected inside the city for some distance. After it was all burned the soldiers and officials who remained to the last threw the dust into the river.

Health, Beauty And The Home

Summer Table Covers

By Mrs. Christine Frederick,
The Distinguished Authority on Household Efficiency.

SURELY if Summer means anything it means color and brightness and festivity. The housekeeper may revel to her heart's content in bright cretonne, chintz and the gay, almost fantastic pottery and china generously governed by the term "cottage china."

Still there are many women who adhere strictly to dressing their tables in white napery only, and who refuse to see the picturesqueness of the colored table cloth. It must be admitted that for strictly formal affairs, nothing takes the place of beautiful white linen, but Summer time being an informal season, is just the time when the wise housekeeper lays away her precious white linens and replaces them with coverings of a less expensive kind.

The idea of using colored cloths probably started in the studio, which is so often a combination living and dining room and where a colored cloth is more in harmony with the other studio surroundings than the dazzling white of the typical dining room. The use of colored cloths has spread from studio to home, largely because they are so artistic, much less expensive to buy, and so much less costly to launder.

For example, there is a wide selection of Japanese towelings in a gray cotton with patterns in blue and green on white. Such cloths can be secured in every size, for large or small tables, with corresponding sized napkins. Or, the woman with clever fingers may purchase this toweling by the bolt and make it into any size cloth she prefers by the simple plan of fagoting the two edges together.

Plain cotton crepes also make desirable napery, especially in shades of green or cream and even pink or orange. Even the plainest meal or snack takes on added delight when eaten from tables covered with such attractive cloths. The colored cloth immediately "lifts up" a meal and renders it picturesque.

But now a few moments on the practical side, which generally appeals to most women. Whereas the usual linen napery must be ironed to a high gloss to be presentable at all, most of the crepes or art coverings need no ironing whatever. They should be hung up very carefully while damp, stretching a large cloth on the double with ends carefully pinned together so as to keep even length on the edges. Hardly a slight pressing is required. Also the colored cloths keep clean longer, especially when used only by adults. With care one cloth will look well a week, whereas it would require several white ones in the same period.

Other materials much used are denim, variations of ramie linen and Indian Head. If these materials cannot be secured in attractive shades it is no trick at all for the clever housewife to dye them in the shades she prefers with the aid of cold water tints such as are now sold in flake and soap form. A table cloth to match every kind of china—what a delightful idea!

One attractive set seen recently was made of gray green Japanese crepe, costing about 40 cents a yard. The cloth was made perfectly square with a deep 2-inch hem. Cretonne was purchased separately, having an attractive wreath pattern, and this wreath was cut out and then basted on each of the four corners and the centre of the cloth. In addition to these five decorative motifs, a small bunch of flowers was cut out and appliqued to each napkin.

Thus resulted, with no very great labor, a most beautiful lunch set of green with cretonne trimming, suitable for the most elaborate luncheon, tea or afternoon refreshment on the porch or in the sun parlor. Such a set is seen in the shops for $15, while it requires about $3 worth of material to make it at home. Another set seen is an orange crepe with a faint blue and green lily pattern used in the same way.

Although china has trebled in price in the past year, still housekeepers are buying it and there is an increased vogue for colored china in solid colors, such as old rose, Alice blue, yellow, etc. The best of these chinas used to be made in Austria, but now Japan is flooding the market with what, it must be admitted, are inferior imitations. Still, good sets can be bought which add greatly to the color scheme of serving Summer meals. Dear old Sedji ware still holds its own with its beautiful translucent color and can be obtained in "open stock" at many stores.

The woman with small means does not buy large sets of china, but only those pieces with which she can serve the greatest variety of meals. For example, instead of buying the large dinner plate, the breakfast plate and other sizes, she chooses the large salad plate, which can be used for supper, breakfast, salad and even the home dinner. A bowl which will do for salad will also do for serving baked dishes by the simple expedient of cooking the food in a glass baking dish of the right size and then using the salad bowl as a serving dish.

Even men notice the gay note supplied by different kinds of china and cloths, and in some way it makes the meal time less prosaic.

Also, do not forget the white paper table cloths and paper napkins which so often are sufficient for simple meals, for the housewife's lunch when alone, for children, and always in the fruit season. A visit to a large paper novelty shop is worth while, because all this kind of goods is much improved in quality of late, so that really attractive napkins, dishes and cloths may be bought.

Also do not forget the paper doilies which are invaluable laundry savers in the Summer time. These may be used in place of linen doilies at each place in serving luncheon or breakfast, and for all tray meals. A glass top on the table with such doilies underneath almost solves the eating laundry problem. If the housekeeper does her own work, especially, every piece saved from washing is the saving of her own strength and time for something more important. The paper doily is so beautiful that it looks like the finest cluny or maderia.

With all of which talk surely no readers will write me, telling about their burdensome Summer laundry problems, or how they have to spend one-half hour ironing a three-yard table cloth. In this era of less service we simply must abandon tradition and use the furnishings which require less upkeep and, withal, often are more artistic and attractive.

"A woman's foot, like her hand, should be in perfect harmony with the rest of her body—plump if she be plump, and thin if she be thin."

Foot Wisdom

By Lina Cavalieri,
The Most Famous Living Beauty.

DO you know why it is that we consider a baby's foot beautiful? It is because it has a perfectly natural shape and is unmarred by ill-fitting, cramping, distorting shoes.

Just in so far as the foot has departed from its original shape and habit is it less than perfect. It is very hard to find a beautiful foot among adults. You have probably heard the story of a New York sculptor who, searching for a perfect foot, dismissed three thousand models who were applicants for the honor, declaring that there was not one beautiful foot among them.

By the established modern standard the foot should be neither small nor large, though it is preferable that it be small rather than large. The tiny foot of a large woman is absurd. It suggests deformity. So does the short foot on the tall woman. The foot should seem to belong to the woman, not to have been loaned to her for the occasion.

Like her hand, a woman's foot should be in perfect harmony with the rest of her body. If the owner be plump, the foot should not be thin. If she be thin, the foot should not be plump.

It should be neither bony nor too fat. The bones should be well covered, but their outline should be plain enough to give a certain distinction called "character" to the foot. The toes should be spread comfortably apart, yet there should not be unseemly spaces between them. The spaces should be slight and even, like those between regular and well-kept teeth. The skin should be smooth and pinky white. The nails should be strong but smooth and semi-transparent and delicately pink.

Above all, there should be no blemish, no disfiguring corn on the small toe, no enlargement of the joints nor bunion, no calloused spots upon the sole. The high-bred foot lies, according to existing standards, not flat upon the ground, but rests upon the heel and front part of the sole, so that a rill of water may easily run under it. To correspond with this natural bridge there must also be an arched instep.

This is the standard. Now how to achieve it. First, wear shoes that are large enough, and let them be of soft, pliable leather. Large enough they must be, but not too large. The foot that slips about in large shoes is as likely to get calloused disfigurements as the one that is pinched.

Heavy leather and thick soles have no place on a woman's delicate foot. The stiff unyielding boot may be all right upon the masculine foot, and it may keep more perfect upon the inch-thick sole, but the skin of a woman's foot is too tender for this. The leather should be close but fine, the soles of medium thickness.

However, I cannot lay too much emphasis upon the need of a straight, even heel on the shoe. The heel is to the shoe what the cornerstone is to the house. It is quite as necessary that it be well laid, straight and secure. The crooked heel threatens the health as the insecure cornerstone the security of the house.

The run-down heel disturbs the adjustment of the internal organs. It pushes them close upon each other, draws others away from their natural support. It destroys the balance of the foot, causing blisters and callous spots. It throws the weight where it should not be, doing violence to the centre of gravity.

Watch your heels as closely as you would the running time of your watch. When the bottoms of the heels disclose an inclined plane at the back or the sides you will find a corresponding blister or a callous spot on the sole. Your ounce of prevention is sending the shoes to the cobbler the moment you see the hint of crookedness in the heels. They can be planed or built up to their former evenness at very slight expense. The money spent thus is much less than the fee of a chiropodist that you might save.

Having formed the habit of wearing comfortable shoes, see that the feet are often released from their prison. Even the best pair of shoes is nothing less than a prison.

In your own room wear the Japanese sandals that protect the delicate soles from the floor but that leave the toes free to lie loosely apart, although they are secured by strong cross-bands. These give the muscles of the feet a chance to relax. They are much better for this purpose than the felt slipper or shoe, which is too closely woven to admit of proper ventilation.

WEATHER

Is Germany Repentant?

WHAT thoughts are stirring deep in the German consciousness? The Spa conference hasn't brought much to the surface, except the outburst of Herr Stinnes. And just what that was we don't know. We hazard the guess however that it was unprintable. If it wasn't we shall never forgive Reuter's for not sending it.

But what is transpiring in the German mind, generally? Is the German in a repentant mood, willing to pay up? Recent investigators have been studying this question and The Literary Digest of June 19 has gathered some of the results.

Germany "is still an unrepentant sinner," in the view of a Methodist bishop who has been investigating conditions in order to make recommendations for relief work in France, Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, Danzig, Germany, Holland, and Belgium. A British religious writer similarly asserts in The British Weekly (London) that the people of Germany "are putting the alleged misdeeds of the Allies up as a shield between themselves and the accusations of conscience." In contrast with this, however, we find a distinguished Methodist educator asserting that Germany has displayed unmistakable proof of a real change of heart. Taking up first the charge of unrepentance made by Bishop Cannon, of the American Methodist Episcopal Church, South, we note his declaration that after talking with well-informed and broadminded men and women in all the European countries he visited, he found himself forced to reach the conclusion that Germany is not yet repentant "upon a careful consideration of the facts and not upon prejudice, narrowness, or vindictiveness." As he writes in a letter to the London Times:

"First, Germany has sinned.. Secondly, the world suffers.... Thirdly, Germany is unrepentant. Germany is sorry, ay, even to the point of 'weeping and gnashing of teeth,' but not sorry for her sin. No, she is sorry for her failure. She is like a thief who is sorry that he was stopped before he could steal everything he wanted, but who is not sorry for what he has done, and is determined to fight to hold on to the things he was able to steal before he was stopped. There is no indication that Germany has experienced any real change of heart. There is no indication that she has any sorrow, to say nothing of remorse, for the poverty, the debt, the famine, the disease, the suffering, the death she has brought upon the world. She is sorry that she is suffering, she is sorry that she has been compelled to sign a treaty which puts the brand of Cain upon her and which binds her to make reparation to even a limited extent. But she knows nothing of genuine repentance which says, as did the publican Zaccheus to Jesus, 'If I have taken anything from any man, I restore him fourfold.' Germany is sorry, angrily sorry, amazedly sorry, sullenly and morosely sorry, revengefully sorry, but she is still an unrepentant sinner, and she ought to be treated as such.

"God—the just, the almighty, loving, the forgiving God—knows not how to bestow forgiveness upon an unrepentant sinner. The willingness, ay, the desire to forgive may be in our hearts, but how can forgiveness be extended to Germany when she has not repented, when she has brought forth no fruit meet for repentance, and when she is persistently, deceitfully, angrily trying to evade the just consequences of her sin? I traveled the length of Germany from Danzig to Berlin and from Berlin to the Holland frontier, and I have traveled through the territory of the Army of Occupation. There are no devastated fields, no shell-torn houses, no looted homes or factories, no mines flooded and ruined, no orchards cut down, no cathedrals or public buildings or monuments defaced or destroyed. The fields, forests, orchards, factories, railroads, public buildings, and homes of Germany are intact. The crops are factories and are growing, the factories are ready for work, the people are under the shelter of the homes of their fathers. The revolutions we have read about in Berlin and elsewhere have wrought small comparative damage to German property. A truly repentant Germany would sorrowfully but eagerly try to make reparation. The present real Germany is trying by hypocrisy and delay to evade reparation.

"Fourthly, Germany must pay. For the good of the world, ay, for her own real good, Germany must be made to pay, to atone, as far as possible, for the crimes.

"Fifthly, the Peace Treaty should be rigidly enforced. Germany must be made to realise that she can not escape just punishment and reparation. She must be compelled to disarm and to demobilise at once. She should be compelled to maintain a responsible, orderly form of government, to be determined by the German people themselves, not by riots or force of arms, but by peaceable methods of elections and representative assemblies. The Allied Powers owe it to the peace and prosperity of the rest of the world to see to it that order is maintained in Germany, even if it be necessary as a last resort to send an army to Berlin. The Prussian military spirit must be destroyed. A repentant Germany is greatly to be desired; but if not a repentant Germany, a submissive, obedient, de-Prussianised Germany is necessary for the peace of the world."

Rev. James Stalker, in The British Weekly article mentioned above, telling what the Christians in Germany are thinking, says in this point:

"The people of Germany are putting the alleged misdeeds of the Allies up as a shield between themselves and the accusations of conscience, and their teachers are encouraging them in this attitude. Their accusations are numerous, but the chief of them is the hunger blockade."

For instance, it is noted, the Rev. F. Siegmund-Schultze, the director of an institution for the evangelisation of the youth of Berlin, has written an article on the subject in his organ, Die Eiche, in which he begins in what Dr. Stalker calls "the following alarming style":

"The murder of the children at Bethlehem is child's play compared with the starvation of German children which has afflicted our poor country for three years in consequence of the blockade. None of the other deeds of violence during the world war, such as those alleged to have been perpetrated on children in Belgium and France, East Prussia, and Poland, Servia, and Macedonia, can be compared in either number or cruelty with this greatest murder of children in history."

Just as it was incomprehensible in many Allied countries "why the Christians in Germany did not rise up and protest against the atrocities perpetrated in Belgium," so Christians in Germany seem unable to understand how "the British conscience remained unaffected by the blockade." Undoubtedly, admits Dr. Stalker, the horror of the blockade has been very great, but, he concludes:

"In this country most would maintain that the Germans had brought the horrors of the blockade on themselves. This, however, is a point of view which as yet they utterly reject. They describe the sufferings of their country in terms only paralleled by the wild outbursts of the Book of Lamentations or a chapter like the twenty-sixth of Leviticus. From the latter passage, however, toward the close they might learn a better way, and desery for their country a future and a hope."

Sharply contrasting with Bishop Cannon's characterisation of Germany's present mood is the declaration of Dr. William Fairfield Warren, former president of Boston University, that "the moral and spiritual mood of the German republic is not that of the former empire," and that any one who does not recognise this is either ignorant or possessed of ignoble hatred toward a fallen foe. As Dr. Warren says in Zion's Herald (Methodist, Boston):

"Before me as I write lies the best known of the German calendars for the year 1920. From its place of publication it is often called the Augsburger. This is its thirty-ninth annual issue. Aiming to serve all Central Europe, it gives the sacred days of Christians, Jews, and Mohammedans impartially. Its large and finely illustrated folio pages carry a body of information and of light reading which would require days and days to peruse. The constitution of the republic occupies a prominent place. A history of the fall of the empire is given, and a most interesting account of the parties and movements through which the present Government came to power and to recognition by the Entente. Nowhere in it have I found a word of bitterness or hate toward America, or even toward the Allied Powers collectively. The loss of the war is directly charged upon the 'weak and muddle-headed' officials of the old regime who, just at the time when America 'was offering her service to mediate a peace,' vigorously insisted on carrying forward a relentless submarine warfare. 'With the loss of the war,' the story goes on, 'our people lost confidence in the social classes which till that time had given it its leaders.' In summing up, this bitter confession is made:

"'The hate, lust, deceit, inhumanity, and measureless hypocrisy which with us had permeated our whole life have made princes and people more diseased than we all suspected. Quite too many looked upon the war itself as a business, a business of lust for glory, or a business of money-making. Too many forgot that the enhancement of the outward power of a people, conquered provinces, and war-indemnities from neighbor nations are aims intrinsically unworthy and by no means compensating for the blood and tears of a war. . . . We are suffering the penalty of the sins of our fathers and that of our own sins.'

"Such language as this in such a publication needs no italics to show its significance. And if such is the voice of a purely secular popular annual, let no self-righteous '150 percent American' betray his ignorance or his ignoble animosity by again saying that he has seen no sign of a change of heart in the land of Luther."

A PROTEST

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir: Last evening, during the lantern parade, I happened to be in an automobile immediately behind a machine bearing the license number 637 and occupied by several Chinese ladies. The front car was driven by a native chauffeur.

This car proceeded leisurely and carefully, just in front of ours, the rear of the parade. Just as we reached the Park a white man, for some unknown cause, suddenly leaped on the chauffeur of this car and started striking him. Two other Caucasian hoodlums joined him, and thrashed the driver unmercifully, despite the protests of the ladies in the rear of the car.

I have no idea what this driver could have done to this trio of rowdies—but I do know that whatever he did (or did not) there are policemen and courts to appeal to.

Such acts of ruffianism as this only tend to besmirch the name of "foreigner" in China; and, as an American, I would like to apologise to those Chinese ladies for the acts of those rowdies. Sincerely,

OUT-OF-TOWN.

"A la Bastille!"

The cry was first raised on July 14, 1789. "This is a revolt!" said Louis mournfully. "Sire," was the ominous reply, "It is a revolution."

"A la Bastille!"

The tales of horror about the Bastille undergo a strange transformation when examined in the dry light of fact. The famous Man in the Iron Mask proves to have been a man in a mask of velvet. Most of the Bastille's iron was velvet.

Latude, whose memoirs are responsible for much of the odium round the name, complains that his fowls were not properly larded and his shirts not fitted with lace ruffles. Deplorable, doubtless, but hardly tragical. At the time of its capture there were exactly seven prisoners—four of whom were criminals and two idiots. The seventh was the black sheep of a noble family which had had him incarcerated in order to put an end to his prodigalities.

"A la Bastille!"

The Bastille was obsolete, but its grim towers frowning over Paris were a complete expression of the despotism of the past. It was as a symbol of the tyranny to which they attributed the evils of their country that the populace dashed against it and conquered the feeble resistance of its guard.

"Bliss was it in that dawn to be alive,
But to be young was very heaven!"

So sang Wordsworth when he heard of the outbreak of the French Revolution.

Today France is again rejoicing in the knowledge that she has thrown off the yoke of a tyranny that has pressed upon her for two generations. Today the cry is:

"Vive La France!"

All Glued Up

Overheard at a local baseball game. Remarks addressed to batter on first base who won't run:

"Never mind your arms, it's your legs you need to watch. Get off that bag. What 'yer got? Mucilage? Take the ball and chain off your ankle and beat it."

An Englishman who was watching looked up "Mucilage"—a word he never used, and found it meant "Gum."

I knew Americans chewed gum but I did not know that they used it for making shoes.—R.B.H.

A couple of country folk were doing the British Museum. They came to the room where the mummies were. At the foot of one was the inscription Pharaoh 834 B.C.

Mrs. Country-Folk asked what the 834 B. C. meant. Mr. Country-Folk was not to be beaten, "Why," he said, "doant 'e know, why that was the number of the motor car that killed 'im."

Still they come. The limericks are now assuming a pile that would make almost a volume. The C/O this day goes to the following:

Made him only smite air—
So his average is bad the past weeks.

The High Cost Of Pagoda

Brass pagodas, like wine, grow more valuable with age.

At least the particular pagoda bought by Sumner Mering, comedian of the University of California Glee Club, is growing more valuable day by day. Mering paid 50 cents for the brass ornament when he was in Shanghai last, but the Manila customs officials made him pay six-cents-a-day storage on it during his ten days in the Philippines.

Too Deep For Us

Dear Domino: Ought the laws to be so devised as to make it easy for people to marry, or, on the contrary, ought they to be so drawn as to make marriage one of the most difficult things in the world? I see the French are taxing bachelors. This law probably is intended to force bachelors into matrimony, but will it have that effect? It seems to me that by taking money from bachelors you make it more difficult for them to marry. What do you think?

From Sorceress To Saint

Final Canonisation Of Joan Of Arc Has Worked This Change In Her Official Ecclesiastical Status

At the Vatican they have just completed the canonisation of Joan of Arc, the Maid of Orleans. The ceremony of beatification held there eleven years ago made her veneration permissible. The canonisation will render it obligatory.

In 1909 the Devil's Advocate, having presumably done his utmost to show that the Maid was unworthy to become a saint, presented the usual formula for pursuing further investigation of the claims put forward on her behalf. It was said at the time that this investigation would be extended until May 30, 1931, just five hundred years after she gave up her life at the stake in the market place at Rouen.

The great war may have had something to do with hastening the final date. It was in that region north of Paris where Foch launched the first of his series of overwhelming offensives in July, 1918, that the Maid suffered the series of defeats which ended with her being taken prisoner at Compiegne by the Burgundians, her sale to the English for $12,000 by John of Luxembourg, her trial and execution as a sorceress. And here, too, after the battle of the Marne, the poilu of the forlorn hope repeatedly visualised the gentle Maid as once more leading the armies of France against the invader.

Then there is to be considered the fact that there were more than 40,000 priests under the Tricolor fighting the Germans; that now republican France, from both a material and a spiritual point of view, feels the need of resuming to a certain extent those relations with the Vatican which were ruptured a little while before the Maid was beatified.

In 1841 there was a great revival throughout France in regard to the services rendered to the country by the Maid. It was then that Michlet's account of La Pucelle in his "History of France" reawakened national interest. Up to that time Shakespeare's account of her as a sorceress in "Henry VI." pretty clearly represented foreign opinion. Voltaire's "La Pucelle" still showed what she meant to the French philosophic mind. Only the German Schiller in his "Jungfrau von Orleans" had consistently represented her as a virgin mystic and a messenger from heaven.

For seventy years France was to behold this constantly augmenting revival initiated by the historian. Artists and sculptors vied with each other in representing her features and the scenes in her short life of only nineteen years; historians dug deep into the archives in search of the truth; poets and novelists idealised the realities that the scholars discovered amid dusty manuscripts.

On Sept. 13, 1851, her statue, the first of a series the work of Princess Marie of France, was inaugurated at Orleans, the scene of the Maid's first great military achievement; there, too, on May 14, 1865, the 435th anniversary of the deliverance of the city was celebrated. The anniversary of her death was celebrated throughout Northern France on May 30, 1878. Henceforth many statues were to be unveiled, of which the following are the best known: At Beaurevoir, Aug. 9, 1878; Domermy, where the Maid was born, Aug. 26, 1891; Chinon, Aug. 14, 1893; Rheims, July 15, 1896; St. Pierre-le-Moutier, Aug. 24, 1902.

But her progress toward rehabilitation among the civil and ecclesiastical authorities did not go forward with the same waves of enthusiasm which carried her on in the popular and artistic mind. Her father, Jean Darc, who had been ennobled with the name of Du Lys by the Dauphin, whose throne the Maid had saved, repeatedly petitiond the French Court, as her mother and brothers did the Pope, for a revision of her trial, alleging that it had been illegally conducted by the Bishop of Beauvais and the Faculty of the University of Paris while under English control. The revision lasted from 1449 until 1456, when the Maid was pronounced innocent and Pope Calixtus III. caused her life and character to be solemnly vindicated at the place of her trial and execution.

Then there was a long wait until the enthusiasm aroused by Michlet and his followers had its effect on Rome. There the Curia first considered the matter in 1875, and then in 1902 it took the first step toward her beatification by pronouncing her venerable." Her beatification was approved on Jan. 27, 1894, by Pope Leo XIII., always a good friend of France. Then her canonisation was proposed in February, 1903, with the initial ceremonies on Jan. 6, 1904, and complete beatification amid georgeous ceremonies in the Vatican on April 18, 1909.

In St. Peter's, on the high altar, in the shadow of St. Peter's chair, stood the "Gloria," picture representing the Maid in the glory of Paradise and clothed in the full, shining panoply of her earthly achievements. The Apostolic Brief for the beatification having been read, a veil fell from the picture, electric lights blazed out all round it, and the bells began to ring joyous peals. Some 50,000 French pilgrims journeyed to Rome to witness the ceremony, but it was noteworthy that official France allowed its Anti-Clerical bias to bind it to the significance of the occasion, ignoring the national importance of the heroic figure which impersonated so signally the country's glorious past and the spirit of patriotism, not only of France but of the whole world. But both impersonation and spirit were to be properly revived five years later.

The period of beatification produced another flood of statues, pictures, biographies and novels. Anatole France gave the Maid of his genius. In England, Andrew Lang gave of his. In America, Mark Twain paused in his jests long enough to write anonymously a rare story of her life with great gentleness and beauty and with a power of visualisation which was the despair of critics.

The story of Joan's brief life may now be gathered from a thousand sources; its scenes viewed from a thousand canvases, tablets and sculptures; still a bare outline of them may not be amiss here:

A Little Ghost

(From the Montreal Star)

There's the spatter of sleet on the window pane
As I enter the old room once again.
I shut the door on the windy hall,
And keep in the shadow against the wall.
Black on its cushion of crimson hue
The kitten dozes, and filtering through
An open door comes a laughing call,
And the clear cut click of a billiard ball.
The collie waits with his lordly air
Till I have taken my old time chair,
But the kitten wakens to crouch and spring
At the gleam of my frock and my beads a-swing.
The smell of leather, the firelit room,
Shadows of dreams in the mellow gloom,
Madonna eyes from the sombre wall,
And the haze of tobacco that shrouds it all!
Old pictures, old books, old chairs—no seas
Between can keep me apart from these . . .
So often I creep to the firelit gloom;
Do you never dream I am in the room?

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

Hall's Distemper

Sharing The War Guilt

French Author Denies Germany Was Wholly To Blame For Great Clash

By HENRI BARBUSSE
Author of "The Fire."

Paris, June 1.—If at times I appear to dwell too much on the responsibility of the Entente in the war it is simply in order to destroy the theory dinned into the people fighting Germany that the Central Empires alone were responsible. This all too simple explanation is accepted in France, and even in England and America as a self-evident fact, believed by many sincere and intelligent people.

The theory of Germany's sole responsibility is not only false, however, but it is the source of all the hatred and injustice which the Treaty of Versailles has given birth to. The idea of Germany's unshared guilt has made this instrument one of penalties and reprisals instead of a basis of sane international policy.

The accusation brought against Germany justifies crushing and disarming this nation, while the Entente, victorious, expands and brandishes her armaments. The theory of Germany's guilt legitimatises the illogical and instable system of protectorates, guarantees, etc., which are merely used to conceal the theft of another man's property.

It explains satisfactorily the gluttony displayed by the victors around the booty. It excuses the attitude of the diplomatic puppets, who, after 276 meetings of the Peace Conference, continued at San Remo their ridiculous imitation of the Congress of Vienna, gravely assisted by imposing staffs of experts, lawyers, geographers and ethnographers.

ALLIES SHARED GUILT

As a matter of fact, the idea of an imperial Germany, constituting the only belligerent element in the old continent, surrounded by a swarm of purely peaceful nations, untouched by any thought of war, the theory of a diabolical Germany as opposed to an angelic Entente, to speak with Mr. Balfour, is absurd, untrue.

Undoubtedly the pan-German campaigns and the appetites of the huge munition works in Germany helped—as we have been told since 1914—to maintain a war spirit on the other side of the Rhine. And every seeker after truth must admit that had the Central Empires been victorious their methods would have been as brutal and despotic as our own.

But this should not make us forget that the chauvinistic spirit of a certain class in France also helped start the car. It is too easy to forget, now, the press campaigns, the reactionary attempts to stir up public opinion, the activities of certain "patriotic leagues" and subsequent "awakenings of national spirit" which fostered a desire for revanche and consequently, the thought of war.

In addition to such campaigns which were cleverly exploited by our high finance and industry for their own very obvious interests, a series of agreements and negotiations were made about which the general public knew nothing, which culminated in the Franco-Russian Alliance and all its consequences.

GREAT BRITAIN'S SHARE

It should be remembered, also, that England had her share in causing the war, quite as much as was more cleverly concealed tha either the German or French campaigns. It is perfectly obvious that England had quite as much interest in having a war as Germany.

The economic superiority of the German Empire threatened Britain's hitherto uncontested supremacy. For the first time England's gigantic ascension suffered a setback. Thanks to the war which we fought by her side, and thanks particularly to the peace, England has recovered her former power and splendor. She now reigns without break, practically from the Cape to Australia and she has won back undisputed mastery of the sea.

The legend of Germany's sole responsibility does not coincide with historical truth. It should be destroyed, particularly because it consecrates and justifies unfair exactions and humilitations.

In discussing responsibilities and the causes of the war, one must look beyond the different books, files or documents which prove that such a telegram or note or message was sent or received at such an such hour and met with such a reply. One must go back to the incidental causes, the pretexts for the war. As a general thing, and without regard to nationality, it may be said that the war was the logical outcome of international capitalism.

Great industrial enterprises and financial combines are the masters of men and events. They maintain a state of aggressive competition between nations, enforced by a series of coercive measures, such as treaties of commerce, protective tariffs, prohibitive importation or exportation taxes, etc. They impose the tyranny of force.

Furthermore, governments who bow down before the ruling classes are free to declare war or peace, not to mention concluding alliances, without referring to anyone, placing their parliaments—not to mention their peoples—face to face with the accomplished fact.

Women Workers Protected

Department Of Labor Bureau To Fix Definite Standards And Policies

Washington, June 2.—Now that Congress has taken steps to perpetuate the Women's Bureau in the Department of Labor this bureau is charged with the responsibility of developing policies and standards which shall promote the welfare of women in gainful occupations, improve their working conditions, increase their efficiency and advance their opportunities for profitable employment.

"Realising the need for a definite statement of standards which should be met in establishments where women were employed was one of the first tasks," said Miss Mary Anderson, director of the Women's Bureau, "and we immediately formulated and published a statement of such standards, and one of the fundamentals is equal pay for equal work, for men and women.

STANDARDS ACCEPTED

"The standards have been accepted and endorsed by many organisations interested in industrial conditions as they affect women and are in very wide use. Our immediate plans are governed by requests that come from all parts of the country, and although the results to be obtained are the same in many communities, the conditions vary in each locality, and many different appeals have been made to our bureau for the solution of some particular problems, such as the wage study of women in Rhode Island; the wage study in Georgia, and we have been asked by Kansas to make a study of wages and hours. We are now working in Manchester, New Hampshire, investigating the workingwomen's responsibility toward the family life of the country.

"The question of equal pay regardless of sex is very important, and to know to what extent the women as well as the men are supporting the family life and are responsible for the family life of the nation is a necessary education.

"Much has been said about the pin money idea actuating a woman's determination to work. This is not true. It is an economic necessity, for women have to work, and the function of this bureau is entirely concerned with the women in industry.

"We have formulated the charts and summaries on the labor laws for women throughout the country and we found that recently the women in gainful occupations comprised 21 percent of the population. I think we are very near 33 1-3 percent now.

"We get all of our investigators through special investigation examinations in the Civil Service and have a director of field investigations at the head of this extensive service. However, there is a very much larger field from which information must be drawn if the bureau formulates the policies of women's employment.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS GUARDED

"First, we must decide whether women are hindered or helped by the enactment of laws limiting the hours they may work in a day or a week. Are women entitled to receive a wage based, as a man's wage is on the cost of supporting dependents? What adjustments should be made in laws regulating hours and conditions of work to prevent discrimination against women, while at the same time giving them protection? What conditions under which women are working are more harmful to them than to men?

"The effect on the employment of women of the eight-hour law now enacted in Massachusetts will be shown upon the completion of an investigation affecting these women before and after the passage of this law. The work that lies ahead is a continued examination of these conditions and of women themselves."
